Hoosier Special Demonstration

First we want to tell you about this demonstration. We shall have with us next Monday a representative from the Hoosier Cabinet Factory, here to meet the ladies of Barre and vicinity and show to them the merits of the most useful piece of household furniture on the market today.

We are very well satisfied with our recent advertising of this cabinet, having already placed several in the homes of Barre, but anticipate greater results from this personal demonstration.

Long Lived Birds.

The Duchess of Bedford in "British Birds" gives some remarkable instances of longevity among birds in her own collection. A Barbary dove which has been in the duchess's possession for fifteen years was left her by an old woman who also owned it for fifteen years and who always said it was an old bird when it was given to her. A Chinese goose has been in the possession of the family for fifty-seven years. A ptarmigan which the duchess bought twenty years ago, when it was an adult bird, still survives. The bird was taken from the nest in 1832 and died in 1900. "It was chained by the leg to a small hatch," says the duchess, "and lived forty-eight years under these miserable conditions."

BANNER SLED DAY

November 26th our sled sales far exceeded any one day's sales we ever had. Quality and Price count. We have both. Inspect our stock and then be your own judge, not take our word for it.

Those who witnessed the performance at the Bijou last night said that the Hudson-Pulton picture was the finest of the celebration seen in this city. The management features "Love's Stratagem" and the public thinks no mistake was made in advertising it as a top-liner. Carmin will sing a clever, catchy little song to-night.

Conversations. "Well, mother, it seems to me your apron looks like 30 cents. Is that the best you've got?" "All right, father; if that's the way you feel about it, give me the 30 cents, and I'll go to Miles' hall December 1 and buy me a good home-made apron for 25 cents, and save enough money to take me to the moving pictures."

Rev. E. Hilton Post of Somerville, Mass., began last evening a series of special revival services at the People's Evangelical church at Montpelier. Services are to be held each evening at 7:30 o'clock, Sunday evening at 7. Rev. Mr. Post is an evangelist of wide experience; he is also a fine singer and has composed a number of well known gospel songs.

Dreamland has a song to-day, entitled, "What Makes the World Go Round," from the now famous opera, "The Broken Idol." It is one of the best songs in the whole opera, and it is a pleasant surprise to hear it. The Robertson sisters are singing it to-day. Two first-rate dramas and a comedy, founded on the Spanish literature, complete a very successful program for to-night.

Life Rings on Mountains.
 A remarkable example of the way in which a mountain may afford on a small scale an image of the earth's climates arranged in successively higher classes has been found by Dr. F. Lowell in the San Francisco peaks. There, which are the ancient volcanic, rise out of a plateau having a mean elevation of 7,000 feet above sea level. The peaks are encircled with zones of vegetation, which run almost like contour lines round them. Between 6,500 and 8,500 feet the yellow pine is the dominant tree. From 8,500 to 10,300 feet the Douglas fir, the silver fir, the cork fir and the aspen share the available ground. Between 10,300 and 11,500 feet the Engelmann spruce and the fir take possession and ascend to the tree limit—Youth's Companion.

Makar's Idea of Hospitality.
 The commander of a punitive force in the Kameruns sent to chastise some recalcitrant natives has just made his report to the German government. The tribe giving trouble is known as the Makas, and they delight in cannibalism. The chiefs, according to the report, fatten slaves to eat them. Captain Dominik says that it is the custom of the country, should visitors arrive unexpectedly, to bring in one of the slaves and kill him as we should a fowl for the entertainment and welcome of the guest.—London Globe.

G. A. R. in Foreign Lands.
 The first Grand Army post in Europe has lately been organized at Oldham, in Lancashire, England, where twenty former Union soldiers reside. Although it is the first European post, it is not the first outside the limits of the United States, as there are already four in Canada, one in Peru and one in Honolulu. There are, according to the United States pension commissioner, about 5,000 pensioners residing in foreign countries.—St. John (N. B.) Globe.

Henry Pitkin's barn in West Hartford was burned Sunday afternoon with all the hay. His herd of 30 cattle was sold to-day, as he has neither shelter or fodder for them.

The Brooklyn society of Vermonters elected officers for the ensuing year at an adjourned session of the annual meeting on the 18th inst. The following were chosen: President, Rev. Walter L. Johnson of Brooklyn; vice president, Charles D. Matthews of New York; secretary, J. L. Barker of Brooklyn; treasurer, F. E. Chandler of Brooklyn; executive committee, A. R. Steele, C. E. Miner, G. D. Hubbard, E. R. Kennedy, and Franklin Hooper. Ladies who are natives of Vermont or descendants of Vermonters will hereafter be invited to become associate members of the society, several having expressed a desire to enroll themselves. There was some talk of changing the name of the society to "The Vermont Society of New York City," but the proposition was laid on the table until the opinion of more of the members could be obtained.

CHICAGO'S FIREBOATS.

Water Guns That Discharge Nine Thousand Gallons a Minute.

The two new Chicago fireboats are 120 feet long and of thirty-six foot beam, and their fire fighting battery as well as the means resorted to by which they can anchor solidly anywhere in the river instead of having to fight a fire alongside a dock is as revolutionary and interesting as the power plant. The main water battery consists of two great "water guns" that can be swung in any direction or at any angle upon their standards. These standards are mounted on a platform just over the positions of the pumps, each great nozzle taking the entire force of 4,500 gallons of water per minute from the pump under it when desired, or should the necessity require it one nozzle, by inserting a slightly larger head, can take the combined 9,000 gallons per minute of both pumps and throw it in one huge, shattering stream.

Each nozzle, with a two inch opening and each receiving the full force of the pump under it, can throw a powerful stream fully 500 feet, while one of them, with a three and one-half inch opening and receiving the water from both pumps, can throw a stream nearly twice the size about the same distance, perhaps a little farther. In addition to these justly named water guns, the fire fighting battery consists of sixteen connections for hose; but, of course, the larger the number of lines of hose used the less is the force of the streams from the water guns. It would, however, be impossible to use the water guns on many fires, as their force would soon batter down the walls of an ordinary brick building if the fighting were at close range; also should the necessity require lines of hose could be run from these connections to supply fire engines at a fire several blocks away from the river. In fact, the boats could be used from several points in the river or from the lake front to fight any fire in Chicago's business district.—Popular Mechanics.

Telephone and Phonograph.
 Some time ago a magnetic telephone was invented which its designer hoped to use in connection with the telephone to receive and record messages in the absence of the owner of the phone. The objection to this system was that a person calling up a number and receiving no response was not inclined to deliver his message to something so intangible as an unsent message and apparently inanimate machine at the other end of the wire. A new improvement is reported along this line, in which a phonograph is provided to answer calls of telephones when the person called is out. The person before leaving will deliver a message to the phonograph stating when he will return, where he is going or where he may be called, and this the phonograph will automatically repeat twice to each call. This it will do, no matter how many calls there may be.—London Standard.

"Green Mountain Brand" Sausage

Green Mountain Brand Sausage is our particular make. We sell more of it than any other market in this vicinity sells of any kind of sausage.

We sell our Green Mountain Brand Sausage at 14c a pound. The price always stays right there, although pork is high.

It has got such a good reputation that we are kept hustling to supply the demand. The reason for this is the fact that our Sausage is the best and cleanest on the market.

We also make a specialty of "Green Mountain Brand" Hams, Boneless Smoked Shoulders and Bacon.

"Boneless Smoked Shoulders" are selling at 15c a pound, weigh from 7 to 14 pounds each.

Good goods keep us busy. Come any time of day and see if it doesn't.

Shell Oysters, live and boiled Lobsters, Chicken Halibut at 18c per pound, are some extras in the Fish Department.

Fur Lined Overcoats

There is a great deal more doing in Fur lined Overcoats than there used to be. A Fur lined Coat is the limit of luxury in a man's apparel. The trouble with the ordinary Fur lined Coat is "skimpiness"—a saving of fabrics and furs at the expense of the Coat. Our Coats are made to our order by a reputable maker who has made them along liberal and correct lines. Coats are lined with Dog skin, Blended and Natural Rat and Marmot. Natural and Blended Otter, Blended Rat and Persian Lamb Collars. $25 to $150. Plush lined Coats, Blended Rat Collar, $15 to $25. The Coats are liberal length with shells of the best Kersey Beavers splendidly tailored. We guarantee our Fur lined Coats in every respect. Luck or chance never enters into a purchase made here—we're always a safe store.
